Fear Loss of Trade Through N. Y. to Pacific Coast: Lines Will Seek to Hold Volume of Water Trade

Advantage for Chicago

Merchants' Association Here Begins Inquiry Into Decreases Roads Propose String Quartet of

The prospect that the proposed rection in transcentinental rail rates set only will injure the trade of the New York district, but also will decrease the volume of shipping through the port, is the subject of close exemination by organizations here and will be a point of attack at the hearings which begin next Friday before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Coastwise steamship lines are preparing to fight many of the rate reductions on the ground that they interior in a better position with regard to trade on the Pacific Coast than New York now enjoys. It is the contention of J. C. Lincoln, manager of the traffic bureau of the association, that the city is entitled to the benefits of its seaboard location and that this advanage should not be destroyed arbitrarily by the new rate structure. The attitude of the association, Mr. Lincoln said, is not to enter into the fight between the railroads and the Lincoin said, is not to enter into the fight between the railroads and the water lines, but to protect the interests of New York. The steamship companies are endeavoring to save the business which has been built up in intercoastal traffic. On many points both will oppose the reductions, but will attack from different angles.

The railroads and the wind already produced a call for a repetition. This middle number was a set of five short pieces entitled "The Pixy. Ring, a Fairy Suite," composed by Mr. H. Araguaya to Bermuda

From South American Run During Winter Season

The steamer Araguaya, 18,000 tens displacement, will be placed in the New York-Bermuda service by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company on a weekly schedule beginning January 7. This ship, which the company says is the largest steamer ever employed for Bermuda passenger traffic, has been running to South America between Southampton and Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Ayres.

Steamship lines plying from New York to Bermuda are making plans for a large volume of winter traffic, which they expect to surpass all pre-war rec-

Special Cable to The Tribune

Familiar with the viol family could fail to be charmed by the ingenious manner in which harmonies, pizzicati, muted tones and the device of bowing near the bridge (sail ponticello) were combined to give the music effish color. But this was not all, for there was charm also in the subject matter of each of the movements and its harmonic treatment. No prestives tribute. Special Cable to The Tribune monic treatment. No prettier tribute LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Aquitania, could have been paid to the work and its thick sailed to-day from Southampton, composer than the audience paid it, by composer than the audience paid it, by permitting all the movements to be played before applauding, and then calling the composer and his companions to the platform again and again until an obvious desire was gratified by a repetition of the finale. There was a healthy British tang in this fairy dance and in the folksong-like tune which was the hurden of the movement deligenthe burden of the movement delinea-tive of the human being who becomes "Pixy-laden."

It was somewhat of a pity, we thought, though we could not but admire the frankness of the confession. that when the quartet played the sub-"Puck," it should have disclosed that there was another Englishman who handled a palette similar to Mr. War-
